

DAMIANO FIORILLO (MSc, PhD) is an economist with a strong interest on the topics of behavioural economics. He is an Associate Professor of Public Economics at the Department of Business and Economics - University of Naples "Parthenope" (Italy). He received a MSc in Economics from the University of Roma "Tor Vergata" (Italy) and a PhD in Public Economics from the University of Salerno (Italy). His main research interests lie in the field of applied economics and micro-econometric covering a wide of topics in economics, and behavioural economics, including health economics, labour economics, environmental economics, social relations, social norms, social and institutional trust. He was an Associate Editor for the International Journal of Social Economics (Emerald Group) (April 2017-2021) and he is an External Affiliate to the Health, Econometrics and Data Group (HEDG), University of York (UK), and a member of the Italian Society of Public Economics (SIEP). His work regularly appears in prestigious social, economic and environmental journals.

Latest publications:

- Nappo N, Fiorillo D., Lubrano Lavadera G. (2022), Subjective job insecurity in Italy during the COVID-19 pandemic in Italy, Italian Economic Journal, <https://doi.org/10.1007/s40797-022-00209-z>
- Fiorillo D., Lubrano Lavadera G., Nappo N. (2020), Individual heterogeneity in the association between social participation and self-rated health. A panel study on BHPS, Social Indicator Research, 151, 645-667.
- Nappo N., Fiorillo D. (2020), Volunteering and self-perceived individual health: Cross-country evidence from nine European countries, International Journal of Social Economics, 47(3), 285-314.
- Fiorillo D., Lubrano Lavadera G., Nappo N. (2020) Structural social capital and mental health: A panel study, Applied Economics, 52(19), 2079-2095.

For more information: ResearchGate