

VINCENZO LOMBARDO is an assistant professor of economics at the University of Naples Parthenope and a GLO (Global labor organization) fellow. His main research interests are in economic growth and development with a particular focus on the issues of culture and long-run growth, migration and the identity of the migrants, firms' productivity and misallocation, and poverty and inequality. Vincenzo holds several visiting scholar positions including at Brown University (USA) and RECent (Modena University).

Latest publications:

- The Rise and Fall of Family Firms in the Process of Development (with Maria Rosaria Carillo and Alberto Zazzaro), Journal of Economic Growth, 2019, 24: 43-78
- Social Inclusion through Social Status and the Emergence of Development Traps, Metroeconomica, 2021, 4: 798-825.
- Social identity and labor market outcomes of immigrants (with Maria Rosaria Carillo and Tiziana Venittelli), Journal of Population Economics, 2022.