

MONICA PAIELLA is currently a Manager of INPS Research Department and is in charge of the Area on Microsimulation models, surveys and statistical processing. Professor of Economics on leave from the University of Naples Parthenope, she holds a PhD in Economics from the University College London. Her research is in the area of household finance and empirical financial economics and has published in leading international peer-reviewed journals the results of her research including the Review of Financial Studies, the Journal of the European Economic Association and the Journal of Applied Econometrics. She has held visiting positions at Columbia University in New York, EIEF in Rome, Goethe Universitat in Frankfurt, the Frankfurt School of Finance and EBS in Wiesbaden, and served as a consultant to the European Central Bank. Her latest research focuses on the economics of aging.

Recent publications:

- Decomposing the wealth effect on consumption - M Paiella, L Pistaferri - Review of Economics and Statistics 99 (4), 710-721, 2017.
- Ownership structure, governance, and innovation - R Minetti, P Murro, M Paiella European Economic Review 80, 165-193, 2016.
- Financial literacy and subjective expectations questions: A validation exercise - M Paiella - Research in Economics 70 (2), 360-374, 2015.